VENICE — To learn independent living skills away from a fully supervised environment is the objective of a community housing program supported by Mental Health Services of Southern Madison County.

The concept of living in the community while still under treatment for emotional problems was discussed by John V. Johnson, executive director of Community Counseling Services, 2024 State St., at Tuesday night's City Council meeting.

"WE ARE LOOKING for suitable housing in Venice for six clients we are working with in a rehabilitation services program," the executive director said.

One residence on Broadway may be suitable to house the clients, but final arrangements have yet to be completed, Johnson said.

These people could be good citizens and good neighbors. They are not dangerous," the director replied when questioned by an alderman.

"LEARNING INDEPENDENT living skills while still under treatment is part of the rehabilitation process. It's a way to find their niche in society again, leading to future competitive employment," Johnson said.

Under consideration by the agency is a four-bedroom house located in the 600 block of Broadway, Johnson said.

"We have to find housing that meets the housing standards of the State of Illinois and the state fire marshal has to approve it," Johnson explained.

Parade for all athletes

GRANITE CITY — The idea of a parade honoring District 9 athletes has been postponed by the Board of Education.

While board members were generally in favor of a sports parade, disagreement arose at Tuesday's regular meeting over limiting the parade to the football team.

BOARD PRESIDENT Kelly

Hogan said he favored a parade to honor the Granite City High School football team for a successful season.

But a committee comprised of high school principal Ken Spaulding, athletic director Gregg Patton and cheerleader and Red Peppers sponsor Terry Papa recommended to the board that a parade for only the football team not be held.

"There was a discussion both ty to have a parade for the football team. It was a recommendation of this committee not to have a parade at this time. I thought it was a great idea. They brought notoriety to the school." But, "We feel that we are going to have to have more sports involved," Spaulding said.

Typo brings district extra reams

By Dave Gosnell

GRANITE CITY — A typing error will cost the school district an extra $1,200 for paper this year.

A typing error is blamed for District 9 being sent a 2 1/2- to three-year supply of data processing paper instead of being sent the usual one-year supply.

The paper will cost the district $1,642 instead of $361, as was originally budgeted.

THE DISTRICT'S finance director, Norm Owca, said the numbers

"40" and "18" were typed on the request form instead of 40,000 and 18,000 sheets of two types of paper. The company interpreted the request as being 40 and 18 boxes of paper.

The company, Office Forms and Graphics, shipped the boxes to the data processing office at the high school before the error was detected, Owca said.

"They sell in large quantities. It's not that unusual for them," he said. Owca said he decided to keep and store the paper in the district's warehouse.

"THE COST of shipping to send it back is more than the cost of (buying) paper in the future. It's not going to go to waste. I'll just warehouse it," Owca said.

Owca said that, compared with the total amount of paper used every year in the district, the extra paper is "insignificant."

He said he did not expect the paper to deteriorate while being stored for several years.

"We've got dry storage areas," Owca said.

Transit road rejected; GC-Pontoon rift on mail address

By Susanne Indelicato
Correspondent

PONTON BEACH — A contract to improve Gunther Road, offered by the Madison County Transit District, was rejected Tuesday by the Village Board of Trustees.

The transit district, which built a garage for its minibuses at the end of Gunther Road, offered to spend $41,000 to improve the road, which was damaged during construction of the transit garage, according to Jerry Kane, district director.

To return the road to its original condition before the damage, he added, would cost $10,000 but the district had planned to also pave the road with asphalt.

A DISPUTE over the mailing address of the garage and the road specifications led village trustees to reject the offer.

The village asked that the garage use a Pontoon Beach mailing address, which the transit district indicated it would not do.

The district plans to use a post office box number and postal officials said there could be problems with using a Pontoon Beach mailing address should the zip code be left off of correspondence.

"OUR EFFORTS to induce all of our businesses to use the Pontoon Beach address with the Granite City zip code helps the tax people to differentiate between businesses in Pontoon Beach and Granite City," said village Trustee Don Rea.

"I don't imagine we'd glean taxes from the transit district, but our reason is also pride in our community."

But district board members do not want to use the Pontoon Beach address, transit district attorney Michael Thompson said.

ASKED WHO the board members are, Thompson replied, "There's one gentleman by the name of Von Dee Cruse." He noted that Granite City Mayor Cruse did not attend the last transit meeting where the final contract was discussed.

"If the zip code is missing (from correspondence), the (post office automated) readers cannot read 'Pontoon Beach,'" Kane said he was told by Granite City Postmaster Larry Wood.

The transit district plans to use a post office box in Granite City to get its mail earlier, Kane said. And because Pontoon Beach has no post office, the district will use the Granite City address.

"SOME OF OUR tax monies (mistakenly) go to Granite City because of our mailing address," Trustee Louis Whitsell said.

Although the transit district would pay taxes, the village, the Granite City mailing address could cause other problems, he said.

"There may be a development across the street from you and their address would be Granite City," Whitsell said.

Trustee Loren Madison objected to the width of the road.

"IF YOU PAVE it 18 feet wide, with those minibuses running, they'll be off on the shoulder all winter long," he said.

The district plans to widen the road to 22 feet in the spring, Kane replied.

"I think things have been so blown out of proportion it is ridiculous. I won't take part in any more of it," Rea said, offering a motion to accept the contract.

When the motion died for lack of a second, Rea moved to reject the contract. Whitsell seconded the motion and the motion passed, with Rea casting the sole no vote.

THE TRUSTEES also indicated there would be no more negotiations on the contract.

"I don't understand why you want to enter this contract, except to name the street," Whitsell told Kane and Thompson. You tore up the street. We all know that."

The legal procedure would be for the village engineer to inspect the road before accepting it, Whitsell said. The contract doesn't provide for that, he said.

The contract would have allowed the transit district to rename the road to possibly Transit Center Drive, Kane said after rejection of the contract.

"WHAT HAPPENED is there's a rift between Granite City and Pontoon Beach over annexations and it seems as if we're caught up in it," Kane said.

"It's a case of the village is proud of the village, which it should be," he added.

In other business, the village approved a business license for Keith and Virginia Biggs to operate a doughnut shop at 4145 Pontoon Road. An electrical contractor's license was granted to Danny L. Campbell of 3301 Lake Drive, Lot 335.

William Ebersoldt, resigned in January.

Ebersoldt's unexpected resignation caused a stalemate among council members about who should serve as acting mayor until the April 1979 election.

After a series of deadlocked council meetings when formal city business came to a standstill, a Circuit Court order was issued and the problem was resolved by drawing lots at the Madison County Courthouse in Edwardsville.

DANIELS WON the acting mayor's job, but did not seek to retain the office in the April election, instead winning his first full term as 1st Ward alderman.

In the April 1979 election, Mayor Echois defeated candidates Milton M. Morris and James J. Reidelberger.

Daniels, a graduate of Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, is employed at Union Electric Company in Pontage and Sioux power plant. He also worked for three years as a teacher and coach in the Venice School District.

VENICE — The resignation of 1st Ward Alderman Phillip W. Daniels was accepted by the City Council at its meeting Tuesday night.

"I will always consider Venice my hometown," said Daniels, who was born and reared in Venice.

"I'VE LIVED here 35 years, but we needed a bigger house," the alderman said, explaining he recently purchased a house in the Edwardsville area and sold the family home on Abbott Street, Venice.

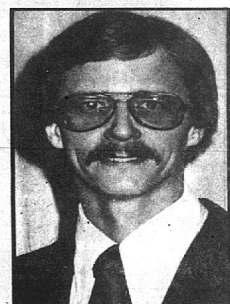

Daniels and his wife, Laura, are the parents of two children, Jennifer and Barry.

"I've been proud to serve as an alderman and it's been a pleasure to serve my community. I want to thank the people for their support over the past eight years," Daniels said.

AN APPOINTMENT to fill the vacancy will be made by Mayor Tyrone Echois at a future meeting.

One of two aldermen in the 1st Ward, Daniels was initially appointed to the City Council in December 1978 and was elected to his first term in April 1979.

Daniels was an alderman for only

Optimists are 'a friend of youth'

GRANITE CITY — Being "a friend of youth" is what the Optimist Club is about.

The club will continue a 12-year tradition this Christmas by providing food and clothing for 10 selected families, said Bill Monical, secretary-treasurer of the Granite City Optimist Club.

Sunday focus

THE FAMILIES are selected through the United Way and the Salvation Army, Monical said. Food, clothing and toys are provided for each family for the holiday.

The one requirement the families receiving the items must meet, Monical said, is that they must have children.

"We're a friend of youth," he said. "That's our motto."

MEMBERS WILL also participate as "bell ringers" for the Salvation Army, Monical said.

Recently, local Optimists raised $700 selling "Old Newsboys' Day" editions of the St. Louis Globe-Democrat, he said.

However, the Christmas programs are only one facet of what the Optimists do for youth during the year.

THE CLUB sponsors a baseball team, a soccer team, a summertime program for youths at the YMCA in Granite City and a bicycle safety inspection program, Monical said.

The Optimists also help support the Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Operation Snowball and other youth programs, he said.

A banquet is held each November honoring youths who "have given of themselves," Monical said. Honorees might include a candy stripper or a youth who has saved a life or helped a handicapped person, he said.

"We bring them (the youths) up front and put them out where people can see them," he said.

FUNDING for youth programs was raised at the club's Camelot Auction, held jointly with Rotarians in October, Monical said.

A pancake and sausage breakfast and a ham and bean dinner are also held to raise funds for the club's projects, he said.

Monical, who has been a member of the local club since 1969, said he has always been interested in helping young people.

"And this is the media to do it," he said.

Comment Farewell to the Gobe

By Joseph P. Duggan

With the same week the Republican Party lost its Senate majority, one of its oldest, staunchest, journalistic allies, The St. Louis Globe-Democrat — long beset with financial problems, and having changed ownership twice in two years — folded a few days before the election.

Always a spirited, crusading newspaper, the Globe-Democrat had been an incubator of "revolutionary" Republican ideas and presidential aides, from Lincoln's Erastus R. Sigbee to the Daily Missouri Democrat, the newspaper was the brainchild of political activists, Francis Preston Blair Jr. and his son, B. Gratz Brown.

Both prominent parties of that era, the Democrats and the Whigs, were then splitting into factions. Blair and Brown were aligned with the Free Soil Democrats, led in Missouri by ex-Sen. Thomas Hart Benton.

Four years later, when the Republican Party of Abraham Lincoln and Gen. John Fremont held its first national nominating convention, the Democrat was the only Missouri paper to cover it. Shortly thereafter the newspaper abandoned Benton's Free-Soil policies and embraced Lincoln's anti-slavery platform.

The relationship between the St. Louis newspaper and the first Republican president scarcely could have been closer. In 1857, Lincoln helped raise funds to promote the Missouri Democrat in Illinois.

Earlier, 18-year-old John Hay, who was reading law in Lincoln's Springfield office, had become a correspondent for the paper. During the 1858 Illinois senatorial campaign, the Democrat carried extensive dispatches from Hay, reporting on the Lincoln-Douglas debates.

When Lincoln won the presidency in 1860, Hay went to the White House as one of his principal aides, beginning a career in public office that would culminate in service as U.S. secretary of state in both William McKinley's and Teddy Roosevelt's administrations.

Operating an anti-slavery paper in a slave state often put the Democrat's editors in personal danger. A few years before the way, editor Gratz Brown's knee was shattered in a pistol duel with St. Louis U.S. attorney, a pro-slavery man. Later, the newspaper's offices were almost destroyed by secessionist mobs. For its unflinching pro-

Union efforts, Lincoln was to praise the Democrat as worth more to the North than to regiments of soldiers. The years following the Civil War were boom times for St. Louis and its pro-Republican newspaper. By 1870, the city had become the nation's fourth largest, its population having grown from less than 80,000 to more than 300,000 in less than two decades.

In 1875, the Democrat merged with another daily, the Globe, and came under the leadership of Joseph Burbridge McCullagh, a journalistic legend for his Civil War and Washington correspondence.

Enjoying close access to Republican presidents and congressional leaders of the day, McCullagh employed the one-on-one political interview more widely than any previous editor; some historians say his aggressive pursuit of access and information were essential to the evolution of the modern practice of public press conferences.

The Globe-Democrat's greatest moment came in 1927 when it sponsored Charles Lindbergh's first solo flight across the Atlantic. Rebuffed in an attempt to gain financial backing from the Post-Dispatch, the young flier won support from Globe-Democrat publisher Lansing Hay and several other St. Louis businessmen. The Globe-Democrat's managing editor is said to have originated the aircraft's name, "The Spirit of St. Louis."

"Spirit" was never lacking in the newspaper's policy and personality. It was a quality that reached beyond the usual boosterism for civic and regional economic progress.

Since McCullagh's time, it had been the Globe-Democrat's genius to recognize that the soul of St. Louis resided in its families and neighborhoods, its ethnic enclaves, its religious congregations.

While most newspapers of the day were cutting back on coverage of religious news, in 1877 McCullagh began a major project for presenting "the fullest and freest discussion" of the viewpoints and activities "of all creeds and denominations." McCullagh promoted his newspaper as the "Great Religious Daily," a term that defined one of its special characteristics for decades to follow.

In recent years, the Globe-Democrat's affinity for family, neighborhood and religion has been evident in local news and editorial columns, on the sports pages, and even on the obituary page.

I have found it something of a trademark for the Globe-Democrat to give extraordinary play to the obituaries of the men who taught in parochial schools — often the same staff-written, two-column treatment accorded bankers and business executives.

It would be quite a departure if the city's surviving daily, the Post-Dispatch, should adopt this spirit. In contrast with the Globe-Democrat's hometown ease and warmth, I've always felt the Post-Dispatch had an Olympian frostiness better suited to New York than to the Heartland.

If St. Louis is losing some of its spirit with the Globe-Democrat's closing, so is the conservative movement. During the early '60s, the newspaper's editorial page hired a pugacious young writer named Patrick Buchanan, who remained there until his work caught the attention of 1968 presidential candidate Richard Nixon.

With Nixon's victory, Buchanan became a presidential speechwriter; later, the Globe-Democrat launched his successful bylined column.

Few major newspapers have supported Ronald Reagan as consistently as the Globe-Democrat. While Missouri's GOP establishment largely supported President Gerald Ford's 1976 bid for nomination, the Globe-Democrat expressed a preference for Reagan.

Even today, many editorial pages which back Reagan on foreign and economic policy remain cool to his convictions on social issues. Not the Globe-Democrat, which was committed to right-to-life legislation, tuition vouchers and tax credits, and other causes on the pro-family agenda.

Three generations of my family have been connected with the Globe-Democrat. My grandfather served as a copy editor; my father was there for more than four decades in many positions, most recently as editorial page editor. And I learned the business there as a copy boy.

Though I lament the paper's demise more personally than most, I cannot help but think that many others, from the neighborhoods of St. Louis to the corridors of government in Washington, also must sense the loss of a kindred spirit.

(Joseph P. Duggan, formerly a newspaperman in North Carolina and Virginia, has served as speechwriter for former Ambassador Jeane Kirkpatrick and for Secretary of Agriculture Richard Lyng.)

No justice in auto wrecks

Car crunch-ups are empty, awkward events. Wrecks are times when you see sympathetic spectators trying to be helpful to distraught, illogical wreckers. Then there are the inevitable dealings with sometimes seamy insurance companies.

So it was when I was a passenger in a car involved in a two-car accident a week ago. It happened so fast. "Ughhh, I don't think she sees us... watch out... She's not stopping... oh —!" Those are the last words I remember telling my friend the driver before her car spun wildly out of control, coming to rest facing the wrong way on a two-lane highway.

"Pop... Crunch, crunch..." — metal against metal — flying glass — silence.

What's our next move? Am I alive? What the car start? Oh, my poor friend's new Chevrolet, thought, I saw a large Oldsmobile backing into the parking lot from where it came.

Amazingly, our car limped to the parking lot. My shock turned to anger. It was all the other driver's fault, it always is. I expected an argument and was arming myself with the facts as I saw them.

"Lady, you just about killed us. You pulled right out..." I said, as the middle-aged woman stepped out of her virtually undamaged tank. She disarmed me.

Columnists' Club

By David Gossnell

"Why, I didn't see you. I just didn't see you. I'm so sorry." My anger turned to slight embarrassment and a general feeling of relief. There was a slight twinge to my shoulder, but nobody was seriously injured. Everything would be fine. These were, after all, only replaceable machines.

The woman admitted her guilt to the police. Witnesses stuck around to give their statements and there were the usual bystanders who told their own tales of automobile horrors, something I could have done without, but at least people were concerned.

Enter the insurance companies. Three days after the accident, her mangled car still sitting idle in her driveway, she has no car to drive to work.

Her insurance company says it is up to the other woman's company to provide temporary transportation, but they also tell her not to rent a car herself because it is difficult to get reimbursed for such things.

In other words, they are saying, "Don't trust people in our business."

This is not a good sign. Repeated long-distance phone calls are made. The other insurance company now is not sure their client is at fault and, besides, they say their adjuster is busy for several days and, you know there is a holiday tomorrow. My friend will just have to wait.

OK, Time for hardball. "Hello. My name is David Gossnell. I was a passenger in a car plowed into by one of your clients. She was ticketed. I am considering getting a complete physical exam including X-rays where I am experiencing great pain."

"I want your corporate billing address, the agent handling the case, your client's insurance policy number and, oh yes, a telephone number where your attorney can talk to your attorney. I also want to make sure the state's consumer affairs department takes the right office."

It was a short conversation. They were not amused and they were unmoved. Insurance companies have the best lawyers.

Now, everyday I think of the woman in the other car, tooling around in a late-model Oldsmobile with a broken blinker light, ready to do her Christmas shopping.

I asked one of my friends, with her mangled Chevrolet, thinking of lawyers, considering ways to get to work, paying for a car that can't be driven, considering about a settlement.

The only insurance that insurance companies provide is a pain in the neck, which I may translate to whiplash.

Pets need extra care during winter

To the editor:

As winter weather approaches, the Madison County Humane Society urges all to take appropriate steps to protect their pets.

Cold-weather care for your pet merely involves common sense: if the weather is too cold for you, it may be too cold for your cat or dog.

During this stressful time, pets need shelter with no cracks for drafts, rain or snow to leak through. Warm bedding is also a necessity. Usually, placing your pet's house under an overhanging next to your house is ideal, because it eliminates make your pet's house.

Readers, to further help your pet cope with the winter chill may require a slight change in its feeding habits.

Pets usually require an increase in calorie intake during the winter, and a quality dog or cat food high in protein should be purchased.

More importantly, make sure your pet's water supply is fresh and accessible. During the hard months of winter, water may have to be changed regularly to stop it from freezing.

An unlikely hazard to pets in winter is antifreeze. Antifreeze is sweet to the pet's taste, and improperly disposed of fluid could make your pet gravely ill if it drinks it, since it is highly toxic.

Finally, remember that this is an optimum time to have your cat or dog spayed or neutered before you inadvertently contribute to the overpopulation of cats and dogs in this county.

Thousands of unwanted kittens and puppies had to be destroyed in Madison County alone last year, so please be a responsible pet owner and contact your local veterinarian or the Spay Clinic in Bethalto and have your pet neutered.

For further information on the Humane Society, Ledy VanKavage can be called at 345-0108.

MADISON COUNTY HUMANE SOCIETY

Solution for animals' overpopulation

To the editor:

The Madison County Board has a unique opportunity to aid the animals of the county while helping defray the cost of maintaining the Animal Control Pound.

By instituting a differential licensing fee — for both dogs and cats — the board would greatly reduce the number of unwanted animals in the county and generate needed money to meet the required costs of running the pound.

Differential licensing requires pet owners who do not spay or neuter their animals to pay a higher fee. The current fee of $4 would remain the same for pets that can no longer add to the animal overpopulation problem, but owners of fertile animals would pay a greater price of perhaps $10.

This would serve as a monetary incentive to irresponsible owners to neuter or spay their animals — without unduly penalizing legitimate breeders.

Including cats — currently unlicensed — would further increase the county's revenue sources and help ensure control of both rabies and population.

No one likes to see fees raised, but in this case the animal overpopulation and revenue shortfall demand action.

Truly responsible pet owners will not suffer and will fully support such a licensing scheme — one which has proven successful in other communities. I encourage all to express that support to your board member.

McLuhan was right: TV is a vast wasteland

"I am the slime from your video, oozing along on your living room floor. I am the slime from your video. Can't stop the slime, people look at me go." Frank Zappa

Media guru Marshall McLuhan fine-tuned the thinking of many Americans when he called television a vast wasteland.

He said TV is a "cool medium" because it doesn't encourage the imagination as print media and radio can.

By watching TV, the viewer sees and hears what is happening. Radio programming, such as National Public Radio's fine plays, excites the imagination, allowing listeners to use their minds to conjure character and location descriptions. Print media demand the most involvement because readers must mentally create all sensory aspects presented by an author.

Consider reader involvement in this example: "The grim-faced editor whirled and spilled a steaming cup of coffee while shouting across the copy desk. 'This story is weak, damn it, weak!' The shepherd rookie cringed and said, 'But it's exactly what you asked for.'"

On TV, the scene would be easy to follow because you would see both characters and all that occurred. On radio, you would hear the voices and know if both were male, and there would be some effects to help the listener mentally create a newsroom. As readers, however, you had to bring your own thoughts — the characters' sex, the smell of the coffee, what a newsroom looks like and so on.

The point is that the print media require people to use their minds, radio does a decent job, and television does little to help you think for yourself.

There is so much concern about America's flabby bodies that perhaps it's time that someone said that the illiteracy rate reflects flabby minds — lazy minds that don't work as they did in pre-TV America. Television is to the mind what junk food is to the body. Frank Lloyd Wright called TV chewing gum for the eyes.

Turning off TV sets would be, for some, similar to withdrawing from drugs. America's newest vegetables — the couch potatoes — probably wouldn't know what to do if left alone with a book, or magazine or newspaper.

But if they peeled themselves off their couches and tried reading, if they got through the first difficult weeks of relying on print for entertainment, perhaps they'd find that thinking can actually be a rewarding experience.

Nahhhhh. (This column is not available on video.)

Nurse assistants graduate

By Valerie Evenden
Staff-writer

VENICE — Graduation exercises for 13 nurse assistant students who completed the fall course at Venice-Lincoln Technical Center were held Tuesday night.

The ceremonies took place in the Town Hall building at the Granite City Army installation, where welcoming remarks were offered by Peter Pence, Venice-Lincoln director.

The Rev. Robert Widbin, pastor of Bethel Evangelical Free Church, Granite City, gave the invocation.

JOYCE McKINNEY, a registered nurse in the Nursing Service Program at St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis, gave the commencement address, reminding the graduates of their influence on health care delivery.

Graduates Marie Beasley and Betty Smith were presented awards for having recorded perfect attendance during the 12-week course of instruction.

Rebecca Dandridge, also one of the graduates, read a poem entitled "Don't Quit."

WILBERT GLASPER, president of the Venice Board of Education, and Robert N. Vickers, Venice superintendent of schools, presented Illinois state certificates to the following graduates:

Beverly Haley, Pat Liss, Marie Beasley, Linda Brown, Rebecca Dandridge, Debra Miller, Jackie Williams, Carol Wicks, Gayle Morris, Joan Mucho, Rhonda Stringer White, Betty Smith and Donna McDowell.

Venice-Lincoln Technical Center, an adult education and vocational school located on South Fourth Street, Venice, is administered by the Venice School District but financed with federal and state funds.

The nurse assistant training program is offered by the school without charge, together with other vocational courses and CED (General Education Development) classes.

Persons residing in the Quad-City Area are invited to call 874-7782 Monday through Friday for further information about courses and enrollment dates.

Q: Because of changes in my working conditions, I am considering retiring at age 58 rather than waiting until age 62 when I become eligible for social security. Will this "early retirement" greatly effect my social security benefits?

A: For an exact answer, check with your local Social Security office and get a benefits estimate. However, knowing how social security benefits are figured could tell you what you need to know to make a decision. Social security benefits are based on your average lifetime earnings minus the five lowest-paid years. If the five non-working years just prior to age 62 counted as your lowest paid years, early retirement would probably have little effect on your benefit. On the other hand, if you haven't worked steadily throughout your life or have had a widely varied salary, retiring before age 62 might result in lower benefits.

will be under staff supervision. "They will be supervised for 18 hours a day, but not at night," Johnson said.

"We've had no problems with clients living in Granite City and, at the same time, we had clients in Madison without problem," he added.

Mental Health Services has not housed any clients in Venice previously, Johnson said.

THOSE LIVING at the house will be between the ages of 19 and 30, with an average age of 25, he said.

Two widely-respected state agency workers, such as how to manage a house, he said.

THE EXECUTIVE director was accompanied to the council meeting by Jim Johnson, a Community Counseling Services staff member for 14 years and a Venice resident since 1974.

Jim Johnson, who also is a member of Mental Health Services' crisis intervention team, said that, depending upon the individual, a person living at the agency-sponsored house could possibly stay there for up to 12 months.

Two widely-respected state agency workers, Wade James, former assistant superintendent of Madison schools, and Venice High School Principal John J. Johnson, have been active members of the Mental Health Services advisory board, he said.

MAYOR TYRONE KEOHLS said such housing help to meet state approval and also be approved by the city before occupancy.

"I'm not sure we'd be in a position to stop this legally, anyway, but I certainly would like to feel the staff could be called, if necessary," the mayor added.

He was expected to be reached 24 hours a day," the director said.

"I think it's a good thing to have them here and that they want to come to our city. Welcome home," said the Rev. John Henry Williams, pastor of New Salem Baptist Church. The minister made the comments after listening to the council discuss the housing proposal.

year, the team deserved the recognition, Hogan said.

"I'm not sure it is right to continue overlooking the football team's accomplishments, Hogan said. "A lot of people think this district should celebrate on what's good about it."

"I'm not saying that we should preclude any individual athlete." But, "The football team went a little above and beyond."

Other board members agreed with the idea of a parade, but favored including all sports.

"I would suggest having a parade for all of them (high school athletes) ... and do it on a yearly basis," said board member Dave Partney.

"If we're going to do something, let's do something spectacular and celebrate," said member Joanne Terrell. She said she favored having the parade in the spring.

Spalding said that, immediately following the end of the football season, the weather had turned very cold and he was concerned the turnout for such a parade would have been low.

HE SAID OTHER high school sports, such as the girls cross-country team and the boys soccer team, had successful seasons and should be included.

Hogan suggested the committee meet again to discuss having a parade later in the school year.

Spalding said the committee would likely recommend having a spring sports parade.

Other civic leaders, including Mayor Von Dee Cruse, said they would cooperate with the district in organizing a parade, Spalding said.

State Supreme Court hearing lawyers' case

Six lawyers who initiated and financed an effort in 1980 to unseat two circuit judges should be disciplined for professional misconduct, the Illinois Supreme Court was told last week.

Jerome Larkin of the Attorney Registration and Disciplinary Commission (ARDC) argued the case.

He said Madison County lawyers who opposed retention of Circuit Judges Victor Mosele and John DeLaurenti should be held responsible for false statements about the judges. The statements were disseminated by the "Committee for an Improved Judiciary."

"Lawyers have the right to speak freely but not falsely," Larkin said. Attorneys for the lawyers argued their rights to free speech were protected by the First and 14th Amendments to the U.S. Constitution would be violated if action is taken against them over their participation in the anti-retention campaign.

Both Mosele of Alton and DeLaurenti of Greenville failed to win retention, although DeLaurenti was later appointed and then re-elected to the bench.

The oral arguments Nov. 20 were the latest in a nearly six-year investigation and attempt to punish the lawyers by the administrator of the ARDC.

Four of the lawyers had earlier filed a lawsuit in federal court in Chicago attempting to bar the ARDC from proceeding against them on the grounds their constitutional rights were being violated. The lawsuit was dismissed by U.S. District Judge James Parsons, with the proviso they could refile if further state proceedings violated the lawyers' rights.

Man's leg is severed when he is hit by car

PONTON BEACH — A 39-year-old Ponton Beach man had one of his legs severed after being struck by a car at 3:47 p.m. Nov. 24.

David M. Heil of 4075 Bruene St. was listed in critical condition at St. Elizabeth Medical Center, Ponton Beach authorities said. He suffered several broken ribs and a punctured lung in the mishap.

Heil was walking near a guard rail at Lake and Oakmont drives in Pontoon Beach when he was struck by an auto driven by Larry L. Briggs, 18, of 4123 Division St., Lot 2. Briggs was driving on Lake Drive when an unidentified auto made a left turn in front of him, police said.

Briggs' car slid against the guard rail and struck Heil.

Heil's leg was severed in such a manner that it could not be surgically reattached, authorities said.

Chicago attorney Leonard Ring, representing Chapman, contended the lawyers did not know the committee had put out false information about the judges.

Attorney William Harte of Chicago, representing Larkin, Schooley and Carlson, also argued that — since they made campaign gifts to the committee that they knew would be publicly disclosed — this showed they weren't trying to hide their involvement.

Larkin said.

Sheriff plans no change in patrolling of taverns

The Madison County Sheriff's Department plans no changes in patrolling at taverns in the wake of two fatal shootings on successive weekends.

Maj. Robert Hertz, director of operations of the Sheriff's Department, said other than the shootings, problems at taverns in unincorporated areas have not been any greater than usual in recent months.

Two men died as the result of shootings on successive Saturdays at Richard's Tavern on Fosterburg Road near Alton and at The Oasis Tavern on Illinois 143 northwest of Edwardsville. Suspects have been charged with murder in each of the slayings. In the latter case, a Granite City man was charged.

Hertz said there are no plans to increase patrols of those taverns or others.

"If we get numerous complaints about a tavern, we have deputies drive through the lots or maybe walk through the taverns at peak hours," Hertz said.

The primary aim of the patrols is to prevent underage drinking and check for closing hour violations, he said.

Handicapped parking vital during holidays

Department of Rehabilitation Services Director Susan S. Suter is appealing to all non-disabled motorists to avoid using specially-marked "handicapped" parking spaces during this holiday shopping season.

"Holiday gift-giving for a person with a disability may be made difficult, if not impossible, by a non-disabled motorist improperly using a parking space marked 'handicapped' outside a store," Suter said in launching a statewide campaign.

Motorists who misuse parking spaces reserved for persons with disabilities are subject to a $50 fine in Illinois.

Abuse of handicapped-designated parking spaces is a problem throughout the year, but is especially acute during the traditional holiday shopping season when parking lots are filled to capacity and weather may be less than optimal, she said.

Suter asked all Illinois motorists to remember the holiday spirit. "This is a time for giving and sharing," she said. "Let's leave specially-marked parking spaces open for people who need them."

Investments topic of meeting

Granite City Educational Secretaries held their November meeting at Coolidge Junior High School, with President Arlene Haldeman presiding. Guest speaker Dave Hopkins, financial adviser from Central Bank, was introduced by President-elect Berta Millan, program chairman.

To anyone who wants to begin an investment program, Hopkins advised: "Be current on monthly expenses and maintain a budget. Know what expenses are outstanding and program your budget for a year. Be adequately insured; if both spouses are working, insurance becomes very important if one of the paychecks gets lopped off."

"Have an emergency fund; money should be set aside to cover expenses in the event one of the paychecks stops, or the only paycheck stops. A money market account is valuable. Credit cards can eat you alive," in cases of salary fluctuation, a three-month emergency fund is necessary.

"There are many magazines and books on financial planning, seek advice. Beware of some stock brokers, since their money is made on sales commissions; some give advice on what is best off them and not what is in your best interest."

"Have goals; know what you are going to do with your investment. Retirement income, children's college education, investment in real estate?"

"Know how many years you have to invest before retirement, and plan to keep your standard of living after retiring at least the same as it is now."

A question and answer period followed.

Plans were finalized for the Christmas party, which will be held at the Collinsville Hilton on Dec. 15. Members of the committee are Chairman Irene Hatcher, Vera Smolar, Pat Uzunoff and Marge King.

A letter of resignation was received from Phyllis Pickel, corresponding secretary, who with her family will be moving to Mesa, Ariz. Her husband has been transferred there by McDonnell Douglas. She is employed by District 9 as a bookkeeper at the high school.

Hostesses Alice Campbell and Dorothy Larner served refreshments. Present other than those mentioned were Irene Williams, Sonya Onnesian, Barbara Schreiber, Millie Chandler, Wanda Page, Irene Hatcher, Louise Moad and Pat Uzunoff. Retirees attending were Gladys Wallace, Lucille Caban and Lucy Stucke.

Prize winners were Hazel Rollins, Thelma Schmidt, Katie Hommert, Edith Ryan and Irene Willis. Others present were Mary Lou Claussen, Lorraine McIlvoy and Nell Talley.

Mrs. McIlvoy will entertain the group for a Christmas party at the clubhouse of Wade and Hazel Rollins.

Trojans whip Panthers

By Gregg Ochoa

Executive Sports Editor

MADISON — The Green Monsters are back.

Using a run-and-gun offense that has become its trademark, the Madison Trojans sprinted past Pinckneyville 72-58 in a non-conference basketball game Friday night. It was the season opener for both schools.

Led by Carlos Briggs' 23 points, Madison placed three players in double figures as coach Rich Essington made a successful return to coaching. Essington, who took over for Rodney Watson, had been out of coaching for nine years.

"To be honest, I wasn't as nervous as I thought I would be," Essington said.

The Trojans outscored the Panthers 22-8 in the second quarter, including a 14-1 run, to transform a six-point deficit into a 38-26 halftime lead.

Lamont Johnson carried the Trojans in the first half, scoring 15 of his 20 points. He also had eight blocked shots.

"Johnson carried us when we needed to be carried," Essington said.

Madison ran at will against the undermanned Pinckneyville team.

"It was quick and we wanted to keep it quick," Essington said of the tempo. "We feel we can run. The only thing tonight is we didn't play too good on defense."

Essington felt the absence of Gary Stanley (ankle) was a factor. Stanley saw very limited playing time.

"He gives us added depth and height. He's a good rebounder and when we can hit the boards that makes our break even better," Essington said.

Madison maintained its lead after the third quarter despite the fact that both teams combined to score only 17 points.

"I thought our 2-3 zone worked worked well," Essington said. "We were able to force them to the outside and they missed the shot."

Kevin Bird led the Panthers with 16 points.

Junior Barry Graskewicz dropped in 14 points, all in the first quarter as the Panthers led 20-14 after the first eight minutes. Incredibly, Graskewicz didn't make a basket the rest of the game.

The Trojans are idle until Tuesday when they host Hillsboro at 8 p.m.

Devils hold off Greyhounds, 61-58

By Dave Whaley

Staff writer

LEBANON — If Wednesday night was any indication, this basketball season might be similar to last year's.

The 1985-86 Venice Red Devils opened the season with a narrow 71-67 victory over the Lebanon Greyhounds, surviving a fourth quarter shooting exhibition by Steve Schieppe. Virtually the same thing happened here Wednesday, as the Devils got the season off on the right foot with a 61-58 win.

Venice seemed to have things going its way at first, as they surged to an eight-point lead early in the third quarter. But Lebanon outscored them 18-4 in a six-minute stretch in that period to take a 42-42 lead.

"They took us out of our game in the third quarter," said Red Devil coach Clinton Harris. "We weren't getting back on defense and just weren't executing."

Jesse Hall, who finished with a game-high 26 points, closed the gap to four points, then Daryl Jackson made one of the big plays of the game, stealing the ball at midcourt and going in for the dunk to make it a 48-46 game as the period ended.

Although Hall was the big scorer again, many of the biggest baskets of the night were scored by other players. Dale Turner's rebound basket tied the game with 2:40 left, then center Hosea King followed a missed Hall shot for the go-ahead bucket with 2:15 left as Venice went ahead, 58-56.

"King had some key rebounds and key baskets for us in the fourth quarter," Harris said. "And Dale Turner controlled the game all night. He was our quarterback on offense, and he had some big rebounds — offensive rebounds — near the end of the game."

The victory spoiled the coaching debut of John Schieppe, Steve's father, who replaced Wayne Loehring at the helm for the Greyhounds.

"I thought we worked real hard," he said. "I'm very happy with the effort. The people saw a lot of talent on the floor tonight from both teams."

The game wasn't clinched until Vincent Harris hit the front end of a one-and-one with 19 seconds left. Schieppe, who paced Lebanon with 22 points, missed a bomb in the final seconds, assuring the Devils of a happy Thanksgiving.

VENICE SCORING

LEBANON

VENICE: Hall 26, Harris 8, Turner 8, Jackson 7, Gardner 6, King 4, Whaley 2. FG: 25-50. FT: 8-10. PF: 15.

LEBANON: Schieppe 22, Vann 17, Peters 9, Weber 5, Friedrich 2. FG: 25-58. FT: 8-15. PF: 14.

The game was originally scheduled for Friday night, but Schieppe said both teams agreed to move it up two days "so we could relax over our turkey."

An early indication that things wouldn't come easily came when Hall missed connections on a perfect alley-oop pass from Harris on the game's first possession. Lebanon broke out to a 6-2 lead, but Venice came back on nine first quarter points from Jesse to take an 11-8 lead. Jackson, who blew an easy basket when he missed a dunk earlier, came back to steal the ball underneath and get a three-point play, and the Devils led 16-8.

But Schieppe and Steve Peters kept hammering away from outside, while Ronald Vann provided an inside game.

"We knew Lebanon had a good team," Harris said. "We played Schieppe hard on defense and did a good job on him, but some of the others hurt us on outside shots, too. Vann was killing us inside, and the only reason he wasn't tougher later in the game was foul trouble."

Vann had four first half fouls, yet didn't foul out until there were 19 seconds left in the game, even though he played most of the second half.

"I told Vann at halftime he was going to play," Schieppe said. "If he was going to be sitting next to me, I said it might as well be with five fouls as with four."

Venice upped its lead to 11 points on a three-point play by Harris and a nice spin move under the basket by Kevin Gardner. But the Greyhounds made five free throws to cut the lead to 34-28 at halftime.

A pair of baskets by Hall gave the Devils a 38-30 edge, but Lebanon then took charge. Schieppe, Vann, Peters and Richard Weber all contributed on offense until Vann's layup tied the game at 42-42. Vann, who had 17 points, scored again moments later, and when Schieppe followed with two baskets underneath, it was a six-point lead.

"At halftime, we decided to move Steven down low, because we felt he could score from there."

coach Schieppe said. "Steve was playing on a bad ankle, but he's tough."

The two late baskets in the third quarter, however, changed the momentum back to Venice.

"We didn't have to play Jesse tonight," Schieppe said. "And he wasn't that dominant in light of what he's done in the past. But if we could contain all five players, we thought we could beat them."

"We wanted to keep the score in the 50's, and we almost did. We showed them some different things, and we didn't play Jesse."

"It was a bad game for Jesse," Harris said. "He wasn't in the game in the first half. I thought we were ready to play. He's better than what he showed tonight. But we played well enough to win."

The Red Devils will have to be even better when the East St. Louis Lincoln Tigers, maybe the best large school team in the area, come to Venice for a Tuesday night game. Tipoff is at 7:45 p.m., with the junior varsity game starting at 6:15 p.m.

Sunday hours changing at Wilson Park rink

The Granite City Park District is announcing new Sunday hours for the Wilson Park ice rink.

The regular afternoon sessions will be held from 1 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. The evening session will be from 7 p.m. to 9:30 p.m., and the session for adults only will be from 9:30 p.m. to 11 p.m.

For more information, call the rink office at 877-2549.

Thanks to GCC

Many thanks to Terry Collins and every one at Granite City Campus who had a part in organizing the celebrity All-Star basketball game and the varsity scrimmage.

It was nostalgic to observe players of yesteryear compete against one another and father time. At one point a team controlled the ball for four minutes — and that was a fast break. So, you know, we were not NBA expansion quality.

But, we had fun and realized there is a college in our town that caters to the civic and educational needs of the community.

Thank you again for letting us be a part of your curriculum even for one evening.

A participant.

Public opinion sought for sports hall nominees

The public has been asked to help nominate persons to be inducted into the Granite City Sports Hall of Fame.

The selection committee will honor 40 people in the hall's first class next spring. One-hundred and sixty-nine names have already been compiled for possible induction.

A ballot has been supplied for use in nominating Hall of Fame candidates. The results will be published at a later date.

Narrow win

PERRY JONES of the GCC Stars had 27 points as the Stars came back from a 42-36 halftime deficit for a 75-74 win over Lincoln Land Wednesday night. Kirt Robinson added 21 points as the Stars raised their record to 3-2. They play Kaskaskia tomorrow night at home in a 7:30 p.m. game.
